Chapter 1 by Ally

Greywood was known for it's forests, old houses, and a huge river. However, Greywood has been known for it's crazy tradition of a game of Truth or Dare. The tradition's rules are simple:

- 1.) Only teens can join the game
- 2.) Must take place in the darkest part of the forest
- 3.) You may not say no
- 4.) What happens in the forest stays in the forest

I thought it was a silly game, but I never knew how wrong I was. It all started with a simple dare and a mysterious teen...

Chapter 2 by R

We stood there in the dark with glowsticks, laughing at ourselves. All friends from school who met up at the edge of the woods as the sun went down and walked in amongst the trees.

He was a stranger, I think, a friend of a friend of a friend of someone who'd been invited on a whim. None of us knew him, even amongst the huge group of students from all over we had

The game started off simple, but then things got... interesting when the school bus pulled out and then when

The stranger sat there, and I watched as he gave his first dare of the evening. His eyes were off, somehow, and I saw a flash of red that sent shivers up my spine.

"Ami." He said, staring at a girl I knew, kind of. She grinned at him, obviously enamored by the mysterious stranger vibe. He pulled out his cigarette, lit, like several of the others had, and handed it to her. "Burn yourself!"

She stared at him with wide eyes, fearful eyes, and her hand shaked. "I'm not going to do this." She said, and none of us said anything. We all knew the tradition, but would anyone stop her?

The stranger grinned.
